Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 16 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry Wednesday, some pleasant sunshine. Scattered showers in southeast.

This Evening and Tonight:
Most areas fine with long clear spells. Staying breezy in the east and north, with some areas of cloud, but lighter winds in the west, allowing patchy frost and a few fog patches, perhaps especially Northern Ireland.

Wednesday:
Western and southwestern areas seeing pleasantly warm sunny spells once any mist clears. Cloudier in north and east, with scattered showers in southeastern areas, a little drizzle in the northwest.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Staying largely dry for most parts although it will often be cloudy. In any sunshine it will become mild, although we could still see some overnight frost in the south.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.